(Sheriff, Staffs)

William I (25 Dec 1066-9 Sep 1087)

William I allowed some Saxon sheriffs to remain in office after 1066 but is said to have replaced all of them with Normans by 1076. The office of Sheriff was frequently purchased from the Crown and the purchasers often considered the office to be hereditary. Thus Robert Stafford was followed by his son Nicholas.

a1086-?1088 Robert Tosny LATER Stafford "Baron Stafford" c1050-?1088

William II (26 Sep 1087-2 Aug 1100)

Nicholas Stafford may have been Sheriff for the greater part of William II's reign.

a1094 Nicholas Stafford "Baron Stafford" c1070-c1138

Henry I (5 Aug 1100-1 Dec 1135)

During his reign Henry I brought the Sheriff's under firmer control and terminated most hereditary Sherifffdoms. He often appointed men for their administrative skills rather than their rank in society.

The financial administration of the shires was greatly reformed in 1236, to the Crown's advantage. Sheriffs were to account for all their profits, and thus lost their former incentive to increase them by extortion. New sheriffs, usually local men without Court connexions, were appointed in seventeen counties. [VCH (SHROPSHIRE) III 14-5]. John Lestrangle however did have court connexions.
